

University of Kent's Institution Contextual Flag

All schools on this list meet the requirements for the University of Kent's Institution Contextual Flag. The Institution Contextual Flag is given to all institutions whose average KS5 academic qualifications (including A Levels) result is below the national average reported by the Department for Education each year. We use the Institution supplied by you in your UCAS application (the UCAS centre or Last Institution) to identify whether it has a Contextual Flag.

Please note: independent schools are not included, neither do we have data from government agencies in Scotland and Northern Ireland and therefore these cannot be given a flag. Similarly, there may be schools or colleges which have recently changed name, status or have merged and this has resulted in no data being reported by the Department of Education, in these instances we will not be able to assess the Institution for a Contextual Flag.
