

COMPASS Work in Progress Seminars 2018-2019

University of Kent, Canterbury

19 October N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Elena Korosteleva, University of Kent	Concept Mapping "Governance and Resilience in wider Eurasia: connecting theory, geography and people"
23 November N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Chris Henry, University of Kent	"Complexity, resistance and resilience"
7 December N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Zach Paikin, University of Kent	"Moscow, Beijing and the Future of International Society"
18 January DG02 Templeman library	Susanne Szkola, Brussels School of International Studies, University of Kent	"Power, Pride and Prejudice: Emotional Othering in Azerbaijan's Presidential Discourse"
8 February DG01 Templeman library	Huawei Zheng, University of Kent	"Is the Eurasian Economic Union (EEU) an Order-Making Regional Actor? An Internal-External Approach"
1 March DG01 Templeman library	Balihar Sanghera and Elmira Satybaldieva, University of Kent	"Global capitalism in Central Asia and competing economic imaginaries"
22 March DG01 Templeman library	Akram Umarov, University of Sussex and University of World Economy and Diplomacy	"China's contemporary policy in Afghanistan: new trends and implications"
12 April, N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Irina Petrova, University of Leuven	"Re-conceptualizing local/mutual ownership as a core element of resilience: The case of the Eastern Partnership Policy"
10 May N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Pak Lee and Anisa Heritage, University of Kent	"China's Belt and Road Initiative and Hegemony"
31 May N4N1 POLIR meeting room	Polina Bishenden, University of Kent	"Women's Rights Localisation in Kazakhstan: the Role of Networking"
14 June N4N1 POLIR meeting room	TBC

University of Cambridge, Central Asia Forum

12 October	N. Fayiz, Diplomat, Embassy of Afghanistan in the UK	'Role of Afghanistan's Key Individuals in Promoting a Winner Take All Principle as Opposed to Power Sharing'
19 October	P. Kalra, Centre of Development Studies, University of Cambridge	'The Mongol Empire as a Model for Development in Eurasia today'
2 November	N. Beishenaly, Blavatnik School of Government, University of Oxford	'Central Asia Regional Cooperation: Agriculture and Food security in Central Asia'
9 November	J. Darmenova, Centre for Development Studies, University of Cambridge	'Social corporate responsibility in Kazakhstan'

16 November	Dr T. Wilkinson, Department of Archaeology, University of Cambridge	'The Prehistoric Silk Roads: Myths, Materials and Methods'
2 November	TBC
30 November	HE G. Iskakova, Embassy of the Kyrgyz Republic, UK	'Readings of Chinggiz Aitmatov'

The most recent list of speakers can be found on the Central Asia Forum's website:

<https://centralasia.group.cam.ac.uk/events>