    The classes in this module combine to deliver a body of interrelated specialist skills and knowledge. Students are introduced to a range of disciplines and techniques for the physicalisation of character, which will enable them to integrate perceptible physical life in support of their characterisations. To achieve this, students are guided towards the development of physical strength, stamina and muscle memory. Students also study a range of pure and applied movement styles which, together with physical theatre and a number of dance disciplines, develops personal coordination and articulation, both as individuals as well as part of the ensemble.

    The curriculum consists of the following classes:
    - Pure Movement
    - Alexander Technique
    - Stage Combat
    - Historical Dance
    - Mask
    - Movement Theatre

11. Reading list (Indicative list, current at time of publication. Reading lists will be published annually)
    Prentice Hall

12. Learning and teaching methods
    This module comprises of 340 hours of study, approximately, broken down as follows:
300 hours of class work including rehearsals and showings
40 hours of private study.

Students work with staff in sessions that are based on the specific requirements of movement training. The subject’s division over several classes as listed under point ten above ensures that detailed technical work and its application to movement are balanced.

All movement work is delivered through a mixture of group and one-to-one sessions, as ensemble based learning and teaching is central to the development of acting skills generally, as is the need to work individually with a tutor, if the need arises. If working as part of a group, students are still expected to make individual contributions to the sessions, when required.

Throughout the module each student receives a formal individual feedback tutorial at the end of every term to discuss progress with a member of staff, and to agree individual targets for development. This tutorial draws on written reports form every class the student has taken. In addition, students receive informal feedback on solo and ensemble work throughout the module as part of LAMDA’s policy to monitor process.

13. Assessment methods

13.1 Main assessment methods

Although a student’s skills are developed through ensemble work, which includes tutor-led feedback and peer observation, the module grade is determined by assessing each individual student.

All assessment on this module is via course work, based on continuous evaluation. This results in summative feedback reports for each student at the end of each term, and an overall grade of the student’s work at the end of the module. Over the duration of the module, the student’s contribution to and performance in each series of classes or workshops results in two marks, weighted equally: one mark for process and one for performance.

- Process marks reflect students’ preparation for and approach to the work, and the extent to which they have applied professional attitudes to the acquisition of new skills or techniques.
- Performance (or attainment) marks reflect the extent to which those skills and techniques have been demonstrated

Initial assessment grading is done in accordance with the University of Kent’s assessment scheme, and its available percentage grades. The criteria applied are outlined in the LAMDA assessment form which identifies the competencies of student work according to the appropriate classifications.

First and second marking procedures follow the regulations as set out by the University of Kent. All first marking is undertaken by the relevant class tutor or workshop director. Final public performances are also second marked by a member of academic staff. All marks are compiled for consideration and moderation at the end-of-term internal examination board meeting, which is attended by the Heads of Department and the Head of the Drama School. This results in two overall process and performance marks, which are then aggregated, to produce a single final module outcome.

15. Inclusive module design

This module is part of a primarily practice-based programme that utilises continuous assessment to measure attainment of the learning outcomes.

LAMDA recognises and has embedded the expectations of current equality legislation, by ensuring that the module is as accessible as possible by design. There is a Learning Agreement system in place to support students with disabilities and for those students who may sustain an injury – physical or vocal – whilst on the course. Reasonable adjustments are made to ensure students can achieve the learning outcomes.

Inclusive practices have been considered in order to support all students in the following areas:

a) Accessible resources and curriculum
b) Learning, teaching and assessment methods

16. Campus(es) or centre(s) where module will be delivered

LAMDA, 155 Talgarth Road, London, W14 9DA
17. Internationalisation

LAMDA auditions for students in France, Ireland and right across North America, has active partnerships with organisation in India and Hong Kong, and regularly attracts students from over fifty different countries. We have an increasingly diverse staffing body, and consistently seek to broaden the range of material we work with beyond the standard canon. Before and after graduation, students are paired with mentors in their own region of the world, and those eligible to work in the US and/or Canada are showcased to the industry in New York and Los Angeles or Toronto, as appropriate. Although our English language entry requirements are high, we have recently introduced additional support for those students whose first language is not English.

If the module is part of a programme in a Partner College or Validated Institution, please complete sections 18 and 19. If the module is not part of a programme in a Partner College or Validated Institution these sections can be deleted.
