   MLaw (Integrated Masters) Professional Legal Practice

8. The intended subject specific learning outcomes. On successfully completing the module students will be able to demonstrate:

   Subject Specific Knowledge and Skills
   1. A knowledge and understanding of the civil and criminal justice systems, including its key institutions, procedures and personnel and its mechanisms for dispute resolution.
   2. A knowledge and understanding of professional conduct and regulation – in particular the key ethical requirements contained in the SRA Principles of Regulation and Code of Conduct.
   3. A knowledge of how to act honestly and with integrity, in accordance with legal and regulatory requirements and the SRA Handbook and Code of Conduct.
   4. An ability to construct and present a reasoned legal argument, exercising judgment informed by evaluation and analysis of relevant data.
5. An ability to use legal terminology correctly and utilise accepted methods of referencing and citation.

General Transferable Skills

1. An ability to use the English language accurately and reliably.
2. An ability to communicate the results of their study/work accurately and reliably, with structured and coherent arguments.

9. A synopsis of the curriculum

The aim of this module is to give students a practical introduction to the mechanics of English law, focusing specifically upon its institutions; its personnel (and what is expected of them in terms of their professional ethics); and its overall approach to the administration of justice. By the end of the module, students should have a solid understanding of how the English Legal System operates in practice and how its practitioners go about their business.

Outline Syllabus

In the course of studying this module, students will cover the following key areas:

1. The civil justice system – including: historical development; the civil courts; the civil justice system pre- and post-1999; criticism, reform.
2. The criminal justice system – including: the police; the criminal courts; the criminal trial process; sentencing; and youth offending.
3. Alternative means of dispute resolution - including an analysis of the shortcomings of the adversarial system and an evaluation of alternative systems in other jurisdictions.
4. The legal profession – including: barristers; solicitors; legal executives and paralegals; and an evaluation of the future of legal training and the legal profession.
5. The administration of justice – including: the role of judges; judicial hierarchy and the different kinds of judge; independence of the judiciary; proposals for reform; and alternative models in other jurisdictions.
6. An introduction to professional conduct, ethics and legal research in practice.

10. Reading List (Indicative list, current at time of publication. Reading lists will be published annually)

All textbooks and practitioner materials will be updated annually. Textbooks will be held in the latest edition and older editions will be withdrawn.

11. Learning and Teaching methods
   This module will be taught by means of a 1 hour lecture and 2 hour seminar for ten weeks.

   The lecture is designed to provide an overall context and explanation of the particular topic, drawing out links to past and future areas of study. Lectures may be viewed live or online. Students may ask questions, in real time if attending live or via electronic means if listening and watching online. It is envisaged that students will have completed introductory reading prior to experiencing the lecture.

   The seminar is the forum in which students will typically contextualise their independent reading and study, alongside their learning from the lecture, in the context of realistic problem scenarios requiring the application of relevant law to factual disputes. Tutors will use a variety of techniques and pedagogic approaches in seminar delivery, including: tutor led discussion; group / team work; targeted and open questions; moots; debates; presentations (individual and group).

12. Assessment methods.
   This module will be assessed in two parts comprising:
   Part A - objective testing of 1.5 hours duration (50%);
   Part B – coursework (50%).
Since the learning outcomes tested by each part overlap (see further detail below) an overall pass of 40% will be sufficient to pass the assessment.

Rationale

This methodology reflects two key objectives: firstly, and most importantly, to assess that the learning outcomes set out above have been achieved by the students. Secondly, to align our assessment regime with that proposed by the Solicitors Regulation Authority for the new Solicitors Qualifying Exam.

According to the SRA’s recent consultation paper, this assessment will use “Objective testing” to assess “Functioning legal knowledge”, with the former defined as requiring “… a candidate to choose or provide a response to questions whose correct answer is predetermined. This might include multiple choice questions, matching questions, assertion/ reason questions or single best answer.” They further state that “All assessments will be computer-based and will take place in timed conditions at secure assessment centres.”

It is clear that the SRA does not intend objective testing to be a matter of mere recall, noting that the aim is to assess “candidates’ ability to draw on sufficient knowledge to practise effectively” and “the application of knowledge and legal processes…Questions will require candidates to identify relevant legal principles and apply them to factual issues to produce a solution which addresses a client’s needs.”

The proposed assessment methodology, combining objective testing with more traditional long form coursework assessment, we feel will combine an assessment of the outcomes of the SQE test with the broader skills outcomes for the module.
