    On successful completion of the module students will be able to:
    11.1 Demonstrate developed knowledge, understanding and application of aspects of professionalism in dentistry, including working with colleagues in the best interests of both the patient and the wider public, protecting patients and their personal information, and taking account of issues relating to equality and diversity.
    11.2 Demonstrate knowledge, understanding and application of guidance including the GDC Standards and other relevant laws and ethical principles, to promote health, act without discrimination and raise concerns about professional performance.
    11.3 Demonstrate the ability to understand and evaluate the contribution of team members and principles of working with the dental or wider healthcare team, in the delivery of safe and effective care that serves the patient’s best interests.
11.4 Recognise, explain and ethically apply the principles of professionally responsible development of both self and colleagues, incorporating giving and receiving feedback, lifelong learning, managing change, self-reflection and maintaining appropriate behaviour.

12. The intended generic learning outcomes:

On completion of this module students would be able to 12.1 Demonstrate the capacity for autonomous learning and ability to evaluate arguments, assumptions, concepts and data to make informed judgements.

12.2 Communicate with clarity in academic and professional/work settings demonstrating regard to interpersonal skills to both specialist and non-specialist audiences.

12.3 Demonstrate ability to apply reflection and self-understanding when working with others, in order to evaluate own strengths and weaknesses and commitment to lifelong learning and continuous professional and personal self development.

12.4 Demonstrate the ability to research, manage, appraise and present material, data and scientific literature through word-processing, computer-based presentation and use of the internet.

13 A synopsis of the curriculum:

This module is designed to introduce students to the concept of professionalism in dentistry, relevant to the role of the dental nurse, and which incorporates working with colleagues in the best interests of patients and the public, protecting patients and their personal information, and taking account of issues relating to equality and diversity. During the module students will gain knowledge and understanding of relevant laws, guidance and ethical principles which underpin professionalism, including discrimination and raising concerns. Students will be able to evaluate the contribution of team members and the principles of team working to the delivery of safe and effective patient care. This module also aims to promote the principles of professionally responsible development, learning, self-reflection and wider behaviour.

15 Learning and Teaching Methods, including the nature and number of contact hours and the total study hours which will be expected of students, and how these relate to achievement of the intended module learning outcomes:
This module will be delivered via face-to-face taught sessions over two weekends and supported with a preparation guided study package issued prior attendance and to be completed by the student prior to the taught delivery.

Teaching will primarily be delivered in the forms of tutor led large group lecture sessions and followed up with small peer group and tutor led seminar discussion and study sessions. Both tutors with specialist expertise and those actively working in the dental sector will deliver the theoretical input.

1:1 face to face tutorials are intended to be student focussed and to concentrate on covering any area of the module content, learning outcomes or other area identified to advance learning.

A division of the 150 hours of learning required for this module is outlined below:
