10. A synopsis of the curriculum
Student choreographers work with a designer, a composer or a moving image artist from appropriate partner organisations. Choreographers make work with students taking the Collaborations: Interpreters module in collaboration with the partner artist they are paired with. The course begins with an intensive workshop for choreography and design/music/moving image students. It then focuses on the work of each collaborative team through the regular presentation of the pieces as they develop. The course culminates in an assessed performance/screening. Students’ continuance of their technical dance training is an integral component of the module.

15. Inclusive module design

London Contemporary Dance School recognises and has embedded the expectations of current equality legislation, by ensuring that the module is as accessible as possible by design. Additional alternative arrangements for students with Inclusive Learning Plans (ILPs)/declared disabilities will be made on an individual basis, in consultation with the relevant policies and support services.

The inclusive practices in the guidance (see Annex B Appendix A) have been considered in order to support all students in the following areas:
a) Accessible resources and curriculum
b) Learning, teaching and assessment methods

17. Internationalisation
The student body at LCDS is an international community; through celebrating the diversity this brings to the undergraduate department and sharing experiences from all over the globe, we aim to harness the benefits of cultural understanding and empathy.

Graduates from LCDS work in a wide range of situations internationally. To retain our focus on employability we recognise the need develop the skills and attributes which will enable students to compete for employment world-wide. Therefore we ensure that the undergraduate curriculum content reflects relevant international or global concerns and we celebrate the positive aspects of learning through international perspectives.

Curriculum content is informed by theoretical and philosophical concerns from around the world. Dance educators represent global techniques, principles and philosophies.

All students benefit from seeing the work of visiting artists in a variety of settings across London and at The Place Theatre, where the programming is known and respected for its international focus. Further, these artists are invited to give workshops and talks to undergraduate students, thereby increasing their understanding and critical thinking in relation to different cultural perspectives.

The benefits of online Library resources now available to students cannot be underestimated; further, students at LCDS enjoy the additional benefit of studying opposite the British Library which gives them unparalleled access to reading material.

In these ways, internationalisation is embedded in the undergraduate programme and all students benefit from developing an individual voice which is informed by listening to others from all around the world.
