13. A synopsis of the curriculum

The Dissertation Written module is designed to enable students to pursue particular interests and concerns which may have been stimulated by or developed during previous modules on the postgraduate programme, in the form of high quality, independent research of a theoretical nature. Students who wish to pursue research which is not related to the areas of study followed during the PGDip will need to evidence sufficient experience in that area before proposals are accepted.

Students who wish to progress to the MA degree and who choose the 60 credit Dissertation Module must have previously passed modules to a total of 120 credits, including the required Module: Research Lab. They will have proven that they have the required academic grounding to undertake a substantial written document of 12-16,000 words (submissions 10% above or below are acceptable).
The Dissertation consists of an Independent Project which is supported by appropriate supervisors. Research topics are agreed following submission of a formal written proposal which is considered by the Research Panel at LCDS (currently the Head of Postgraduate Research, the Head of Choreography, the Assistant Director and the Director of Postgraduate Programmes).

During the Postgraduate Diploma programme, students will have attended a series of lectures on research techniques alongside study skills sessions as part of the Module: Research Lab. These lectures will also support students as they prepare to submit formal research proposals. As they begin work on this Module, students who return to study following a period of intermission may attend further lectures on appropriate research methodologies, academic skills, and bibliographic and style conventions if they need a revision opportunity.

Tutors are available to give feedback on draft proposals; once students have registered for the Module they receive ongoing support from a designated supervisor, alongside other faculty members such as the Learning Resources Manager and the Academic support tutor, as necessary. Dissertations are supervised internally by relevant tutors on the LCDS faculty, supplemented by external professionals as appropriate.

Period of study:

Students may continue from the PGDip directly to the Dissertation Module, or can defer the commencement of this final research project. For both full-time and part-time students, all projects must be completed within six years from the initial date of registration for PGDip. Regulations for Overseas students are determined by the UK Border Agency and are subject to change; at the time of writing there is a requirement for all overseas students to study full-time and complete the MA in 4 terms. Students should make certain to check the requirements of their particular visas.
