10. A synopsis of the curriculum

This module is designed to develop artist teachers/facilitators who are reflective practitioners and are able to apply a deep understanding of the subject, art form, person centered approaches and how individuals grow through engagement in meaningful dance activities. This will enable students to gain insight into how their contribution impacts on the development and achievement of their participants.

This module will focus upon:

- practical and critical understanding of arts educational theory and learner support theories which support advancement of scholarly practice
- reflective practice linked to the development of professional practice
- practitioner research skills for effective research informed teaching, learning and/or learner support

The purpose of this module is to provide opportunities to combine practical work experience, academic reflection and professional development.

The placement experience allows students to develop and reflect on professional practice in these areas, in real and often complex situations, and to integrate this with the study of their area specialism. Where relevant, they develop, reinforce and apply professional expertise in an employment context.

This module will be delivered in a considered manner appropriate to the activity undertaken by the student. It is intended that students will spend 2 days per week at NSCD and 3 days per week (or equivalent) on placement. Seminars and tutorials will be held in November, January and online.

The nature of the MA DTAF and how it is constructed means that professional practice has a natural connection with other modules. With reference to placement hours, we recognise that these may be used across several modules and the hours identified above are to be viewed as a guide and not seen as the total number of hours required specifically for this module.

As the majority of this module is a work-based (October to February) where participants use their work experience to apply and evaluate their professional skills and knowledge. We encourage participants to identify a senior experienced colleague in their institution to be a host mentor. Host mentors play a particularly important role as an experienced member of staff with a close and detailed working knowledge of the participant’s institution and discipline. They support the participant in other ways throughout their professional delivery. They might give advice on such things as:

- Choice of teaching method
- Dealing with problems arising in tutorials, seminars, lectures
- Assessment, marking schemes, marking criteria, standards etc.
- Gaining and giving feedback
- Institution procedures and policies related to learning and teaching
- Action research itself
- Reviewing written work as colleagues complete their portfolio
For the purposes of this module, the host mentor acts as a ‘critical friend’ who provides a source of support and discussion for the work involved in the module. The host mentor will have experience of teaching in the participant’s discipline. She or he will also be aware of the institution context, and will be able to give advice on issues with which participants will engage as they progress through the programme.

Host mentor Training
There are a number of meetings throughout the year which provide a chance for host mentors and practitioners to meet with the MA DTAF team to clarify issues associated with the Scheme and to standardise the support system.

13. Assessment methods

13.1 Main assessment methods

- Item 1: Assessed observation of practice 1
  - Weighting: 25%
  - Learning outcomes addressed: 8.1, 8.3, 8.5, 8.6, 9.2, 9.3 and 9.4.

- Item 2: Assessed observation of practice 2
  - Weighting: 50%
  - Learning outcomes addressed: 8.1, 8.3, 8.5, 8.6, 9.2, 9.3, 9.4 and 9.5

- Item 3: Essay: Critical reflection of practice (1,500 words) or equivalent
  - Weighting: 50%
  - Learning outcomes addressed: 8.1, 8.3, 8.5, 8.6, 9.2, 9.3, 9.4 and 9.5

There are 3 summative assessment points on completion of the activity. Two observations of practice in the workplace, conducted by the NSCD module leader are combined with a portfolio of reflections of practice to support and contextualise the observations (connected to module MADWP1).

The assessment strategy focuses on the demonstration of the participant’s understanding of arts teaching through their demonstration and examination of practice in these areas.

Throughout the module students will receive feedback through group and 1:1 tutorials as appropriate. It is expected that students will seek support from their host mentor to enrich the feedback process. Formal feedback will be given following the assessments.

Inclusive module design

Northern School of Contemporary Dance recognises and has embedded the expectations of current equality legislation, by ensuring that the module is as accessible as possible by design. Additional alternative arrangements for students with Inclusive Learning Plans (ILPs)/declared disabilities will be made on an individual basis, in consultation with the relevant policies and support services.

The inclusive practices in the guidance (see Annex B Appendix A) have been considered in order to support all students in the following areas:

a) Accessible resources and curriculum

b) Learning, teaching and assessment methods

Northern School of Contemporary Dance recognises and has embedded the expectations of current disability equality legislation, and supports students with a declared disability or special educational need in its teaching. Within this module we will make reasonable adjustments wherever necessary, including additional or substitute materials, teaching modes or assessment methods for students who have declared and discussed their learning support needs. Arrangements for students with declared disabilities will be made on an individual basis, in consultation with Northern School of Contemporary Dance’s student support service, and specialist support will be provided where needed.
This module is intended to offer an inclusive approach to learning and assessment for most specific learning difficulties and physical disabilities. Where necessary individual adjustments will also be made.

16. Campus(es) or centre(s) where module will be delivered

17. Internationalisation
    As a reflection of the nature of employment across the arts sector in secondary, post-16 and community education, there are likely to be a number of participants on the module who are foreign nationals and/or educated in systems outside the UK. Thus, they bring a diverse set of experiences and expectations about secondary, post-16 and community education. One of the roles of the module is to ensure that participants have a shared understanding of the national (UK) context in which they are teaching. Class discussions will benefit from comparisons/contrasts between this national context of secondary, post-16 and community education and the various backgrounds and experiences participants bring. Readings on discipline-specific aspects of pedagogy may be drawn from a broader variety of contexts (e.g. American, Australian and European) and participants will be encouraged engage with that literature as a means of supporting their own teaching, learning and student support contexts, within their own institution and professional role. Online contribution and collaborative input through the virtual learning environment (in the case of forums, group blogs and discussion boards) is also likely to raise issues of differences between students in what is interesting to them (including what is relevant to them given their diverse backgrounds). Within this module students will shape work which makes some connection to the wider world in which they live. International students sometimes frame work suitable for their home market, others create work for a UK/European audience.

    Module resources are drawn from international journals and authors. Students are also encouraged to make references to literature form home country sources, in particular where professional practice takes place and where the student is working during the period of study on this module. This is important to support the student to make comparison between UK and international systems of arts education.

    Learning outcomes and assessment items are intended to be flexible enough for differing influences to be explored as they happen and reflect the cohort population for any particular year.
